For fans of budding sports car racing as well as for the average person who wants to improve driving skills, enrolling in racing car driving school is not only enjoyable but can be very educational as well. Californians can choose from a variety of racing schools that have former racing car drivers like Daniel McKeever III and take you to high-speed racing tracks during your workout. Fast Lane Driving SchoolFirst opened in 1994 by former pit car driver Danny McKeever III, Fast Lane Driving School located in Rosamond, California. This popular school has three major instructors and twelve assistants that will teach you how to handle stock cars and show you how to shift gears at the right time so you can speed up through long and short curves in racing tracks. The school contains a 2.5-mile race course spanning nine very long curves and straight. Students can choose from a one-day, two-day or three-day course available throughout the year. Car racing has been around since 1895 and has become one of the most popular sports in the world. Produced in Maranello, ---Ferrari Station is one of the most popular racing cars inherent. The Scuderia Ferrari team is a popular contestant in the Formula One world. In 1993, German racing car driver Michael Schumacher drove Ferrari 412T---filling of the Ferrari Formula One---naking tournament one of the most successful brands in the race. The company also built cars for other car racing events, such as the A1 Grand Prix series, from 2008 to 2009. They also produced 599 GTB Fiorano and F430 GT driven on the GT race series during other Grand Prix events. Many successful hole cars were built by Porsche. It produced the legendary Porsche 917 that won two consecutive tournaments at Le Mans in 1970 and 1971. Porsche 917 also won the World Championship Series Race, racking up 8 of 10 tournaments. The Formula One race is considered the highest form of car racing dissented by federation Internationale de l'Automobile. In the 2006 season, the highest speed of The Formula 1 car was more than 300 km/h. In U.S.---NASCAR races, such as the Sprint Cup series and the Daytona 5000, are the most popular types of races. The race cars used in NASCAR races have a power peak of around 830 BHP at 9000 RPM, with a peak torch of 520 pounds per foot. They are strictly limited in respect of parts, materials, dimensions, minimum weight of components, and other permissible parts. NASCAR races are usually 300 to 500 miles long and the engine design life for cars ranges up to 800 miles. The car used in the Formula One racer is a one-seat racer, generally featuring 2.4L custom V8s. Qualiaation and fuel systems are controlled by a systematic and computerized digital engine management system. With a minimum weight of 95 kilograms, the car produced peak power of around 755 BHP at over 19,000 RPM and a peak torch of 214 pounds per foot. Each Formula One racing car has fewer restrictions compared to NASCAR. The Gore-Tex Transrockies run starts today in Buena Vista, Colorado. More than 400 runners will include 100 stone high in six days, competing in daily challenges between 10 to 24 stone for $20,000 to $20,000 when they cross the finish line in Beaver Creek, Colorado on August 19. But, unlike your usual 10K or marathon, athletes will receive luxury benefits such as gourmet catering, hot showers (semi-hauls around custom shower rigs!) and live entertainment throughout the week. Not to mention free beer, massages and foot baths after they cross the finish line! Sounds like a dream come true, right? Well, until you think about dealing with the complicated terrain-they run at 7,400 and 12,600 feet above sea level! If, like me, your walking experience is limited to your own 'hood', there's still plenty of time to prepare for next year's Transrockies Race or any extreme race that sparks your interest. We recently caught up with Ryan Sutter, who will compete with colleagues from the Vail Fire Department (Yes, the same Ryan Sutter who won The Bachelorette in 2003!) who shared his top five tips for running an extreme race. Do your research. Watch races, volunteers, crew or support others. Take a baby step! Easily get into your distance. If your goal is to travel on a 100-mile mountain bike, start riding with the group and doing shorter races. Train! Do extreme training for extreme races. Get a coach or follow a proven training program. Get support. Don't go it alone. You need family support, friends, crew and sometimes even your workplace. Stick with what you know. Early birds really got worms. Focus your gear and nutrition plan within a month of your race. Use the same gear and nutrition of race day that you do for your fastest training day. Because of the hole car. Ask any Ferrari salesperser who respects themselves and they will proudly return you with the story of how each Ferrari is built with the heart of a hole car. In reality, most of the ferrari that will road, during fasting and acratc, are far from providing nothing near a true race experience. But to be honest with yourself, would you be pushing the chance to drive a Ferrari F430 Challenge hole car on the road? I know we won't. And, as it turns out, not Doug DeMuro, the star of this video. Oh, and do we mention the car basically having a zero suspension journey? That means every small bump and pothole becomes a game either bruising or not that will be there tomorrow. But hey, it's a Ferrari hole car. We will all to drive one. In this video, Doug gets behind the wheel of the F430 Challenge car and takes it for a spin around the neighborhood in an attempt to see what the car wants to live with every day (spoilers: not fun). The first major problem that arises is the height issue. F430 is not a big car with any stretch of the imagination. When you dress up with racing chairs and a full roll cage, it gets tighter. Add to that the fact that the car does not Air conditioning is of any kind and you start to get a better understanding of how uncomfortable such a car will be on the street. Although we have to admit that it doesn't sound epic enough when you hit the thicin. thictle.
